Sharon Levinson is a touring front of house sound engineer based out of Montreal, Quebec Canada. She specializes in bands with crazy input lists and ambiguous genre classifications. She does not snore and tries to bathe regularly. She can lift amps and parallel-park vans with trailers, and sleeps very soundly on tour buses. She is an American citizen with Canadian permanent residency, meaning she can legally work throughout North America without a work permit. She has never had any problems crossing international borders. Monitor gigs are also welcome and she can do double- (or triple-) duty as a tour manager, production manager, and/or driver.
